“ I didn't know you like that but It's too soon. You shouldn't have gone so soon. You deserved to live your best life and to live long. Rest In Paradise. You are missed.

“ I met kenderrias at his job on my cousins birthday & he was hosting his party. He made sure he communicated with everyone & made everybody feel comfortable. Kenderrias was such a sweet person when i met him my first 10 minutes we clicked so well & was arguing about our school basketball teams. after that day he texted me everyday & said “come see me at work” or “come with me to the movies” he always wanted to hang out if you was bored you could’ve called him & hall was gonna go some where he was so kind i miss him so muchh , LLKD ❤️.

“ I went to kindergarten with kendarious. He was the first friend I ever made while in school from lunch to the playground it was always me and him together. Always a huge smile and something green on his outfit. Everyone who knows him knows that he has room in his heart for everyone. His parents did a great job raising him. Any parent would be lucky to have a kid like him. I look at his mom and I see his heart, his smile. I look at his dad and see his strength, and toughness. The last thing I would like to say is that when you look outside and see the infinite green, you can have comfort in the fact that his memory will live forever

“ I had the privilege of teaching Kenderrias when he was a 5th grader at Wesley Lakes Elementary. Each time he entered my room, he entered with a smile on his face and in his heart. He was loved by his classmates, teachers, and staff. One memory I have of Kenderrias was helping him in the afternoons with his reading. He was not yet on 5th grade level, but he worked hard, and was ready to enter middle school reading firmly on a 6th grade reading level. This is how he was on everything set before him. He always strived to give his best!

“ KD was a kind and very happy kid. Although kids do tend to act different around adults- my son Ethan has said the same. He said: KD was not like most kids, he didn't bully kids, he didn't talk down on them... he just played it cool and tried to befriend everyone. KD was a good buddy of mine while we played baseball together on a travel baseball team. Through the years we'd see each other and catch up... I just saw him and his dad a few weeks ago. When I heard the news I told my mom- no way it could be KD. He's the only kid I knew that went to ELHS. My heart truly hurts for his family especially his dad. His dad was his biggest fan. I can always remember hearing him cheer on KD from the stands. KD's dad is a G.O.A.T. 🏆🏆🏆
We hope that God can give KD's family peace and understanding and his undying love during this most difficult time. Earth was good while he was here, but now Heaven is so much better. God got KD on his team now. 🏆

Love,

“ Sending prayers of light and love to Charles and Cerra. I can't imagine the grief your hearts feel, but know in time God will wipe away those tears and the sting of death won't be so great. Praying for you all earnestly.

“ there isn't enough words in the world to amount to how great of a person Kd was. anyone who got the gift of having him in their life is a lucky person. getting to know him and see him everyday was a gift i took for granted. Kd was very accountable, hard working and soooo much fun to be around.

his presence is something i'll never forget and i'll always miss having around. the love he had for his family is so strong and everything he did, he did it with all he had. there's not a lot of people in this world like Kd, he is a very special soul. we had gone a while without talking after he got injured in baseball and i saw him at kroger about 2 weeks before he passed. when i saw him we hugged and i wish i could just go back and hug him for a little while longer. we started the conversation as if we never stopped talking and i loved that about him. although we all want him back with us and even though he was so young, he's up where we all hope to be one day and he's just waiting for us :) unfortunately, all we have left of him is memories but to all his loved ones: make the most of this life you have, he's going to be waiting up in paradise for you when the time comes and we'll have eternity with him. whenever you need to talk to him, you can. it'll be a while before we hear his voice again but as long as he's in God's hands we will never lose our connection with Kd. may his soul rest in peace <3

Kd was more than just a great friend to me but in a large way he was a great friend to everyone, such an amazing person with an air about him that is so easy to get to know and enjoy, it was a long time since me and him talked and for that I regret a lot but when I did see him the day of his passing it was as if the break we had from talking never even existed I loved kd like a brother and the energy he had was so warm and even though he is in a better place now in God's kingdom words will never be able to describe how much he will be missed. Love you brother fly high. Jaiden Cohen

“ I will always remember you as the sweet loving, disciplined kid in my after-school class some years back. You knew me as Ms. Barkley then. I worked with your Mom and even had your little brother in some of my classes. I feel like I have a special relationship with your family. Maybe there's a baseball team waiting for you in heaven. Baseball is what you loved but God saw otherwise. My heartfelt condolences to the family. Kenderrias will always be in my heart
