October 27, 1916 - September 13, 2015

Mother Ollie Jane Gillham was born to Rev. Frank & Lillie Spivey on October 27, 1916 in Dublin, Georgia. She was the youngest of seven children – two brothers, Iverson and Randall Spivey and four sisters, Ivy Lee, Sadie, Francis and Willie Mae, all deceased. She was also preceded in death by a daughter-in-law, Mary Ann Sanders.

She attended Booker T. Washington High School where she graduated in 1948. She also attended Atlanta Area Tech for TV Repair Tech. Mother Gillham worked at Georgia Tech in the kitchen and did TV repair part-time.

She married Richard Gillham on September 17, 1932 and they shared 56 loving years together. Her son, Iverson Cleamons also preceded her in death.

They were the founders and builders of Faith Temple C.O.G.I.C., presently known as Pentecostal Temple C.O.G.I.C., and she faithfully worked alongside her husband building the house of worship. Mother Gillham did so much for others. She helped a lot of young women. She loved going to the convocation conventions. She was active in her local church and district. She was well loved by many. Dorothy Varner, Perry Marshall, Jr., and Cora King were her loving god-children. She knew Dorothy and Perry from childhood to adulthood. They assisted Mother Gillham by transporting her to doctor's appointments and other places. Louis Allen, her great grandson, she took on as a son.

She leaves to mourn four grandchildren, Rufus Sims, Linda “Kathy” Hubbard, Shelia Cooper and Ollie Jane Cleamons; a daughter-in-law, JannieCleamons; and a host of grandchildren by marriage, great grandchildren, nieces, nephews, god-children, other relatives and friends.
